d what do you mean by the phrase 'No one dies of hunger'?

Ans The phrase 'No one dies of hunger' means no-matter how many hardships we endure or the number of nights we could'nt get to eat. At the very end, no one will starve to death.

2 "The moment---------- Crooks, Lencho

a Why did Lencho write the second letter?

Ans Lencho write the second letter because when he got the letter with money from the postmaster, there were only 70 pesos in the letter instead of 100 pesos. So, he thought that post office employees had stolen 30 pesos from the letter.

b State whether the given statement is true or false.

Ans The given statement is false as the letter was not from God but the post office employees. The 70 pesos that Lench got was contributed by the employees only. It was only Lencho's foolishness and ungratefullness that he thought a letter to god will help his family and even when he recieved the money he got angry for just 30 pesos.

c On reading the letter postmaster was dismade why did Lencho called the employees 'a bunch of crooks'.

Ans Lench called the employees 'a bunch of crooks' because he thought that God would not make a mistake and the missing 30 pesos were stolen by the post office employees.

d Complete the analogy. — ? Not to be done

Ans The analogy lies in Lencho's faith in God, in this even though he's never met him, yet his manner lack of faith in the people who tried to help him. It's tale of trust, irony, and human shortcomings. In the end, faith will take your far, as long as you understand what's going on. Redo.

III Answer the following in Short Answers:

Q1 what are the rain drops compared to and why?

Ans Raindrops are compared to new coins. Lench views them as blessings, symbolizing hope and prosperity for a good harvest. This reflects his reliance on nature's generosity for livelihood.

Q2 How was Lencho's life affected by the rain?

Scanned with OKEN Scanner

Ans At first, the rain filled Lencho with hope, as he believed it would guarantee a bountiful harvest. But when it turned into a hailstorm, it destroyed his crops entirely, leaving him heartbroken and anxious about his family's survival.

Q3 Bring out the irony in the ending of the story.

Ans Lencho's faith in God is unshakable, yet he mistrusts the very people who help him. Instead of gratitude, he accuses them of stealing the money, highlighting the irony of his belief in divine intervention over human kindness.

Q4 Why did Lencho ask for help from god? did he recieve it?

Ans Lencho sought help from ~~god~~ God after a hailstorm destroyed his crops, leaving his family in desperate need. He recieved 70 pesos from kind post office workers but believed they stole part of the money, showcasing his faith and mistrust.

III Answer the following Long Questions:

Q1 Humanity still exits, this is what we come to know from the lesson 'A letter to God' In which faith in god of a poor farmer and help fullness of the post office employees are actually depicted. Justify the statement by giving valid reason.

Ans "A letter to God" shines a light on the enduring kindness and humanity in the world. Lencho, a poor farmer, loses his crops to a devastating hailstorm and writes a heartfelt letter to God, asking for help. His unwavering faith in God inspires the postmaster and his colleagues, who come together to collect 70 pesos to support him. This act of generosity is a testament to the goodness that still exists among people.

Although Lencho misunderstoods their selflessness, believing they've stolen part of the money, the story beautifully underscores the strength of compassion. It shows that humanity thrives in unexpected places, where people act out of pure kindness. The lesson reminds us that while faith in God is powerful, the selflessness and goodwill of ordinary people are equally extraordinary, bridging gaps even in moments of misunderstanding.
