Date 9

A Tiger in the Zoo

I Answer the following Word Meanings:-

a Rage: intense or fury Sentence- She was filled with rage when she discored the unfair

b Lurking: To remain hidden or stay in a place Sentence- I felt like someone was lurking in the shadows, watching my every more.

c Sliding: Moving smoothly along a surface Sentence- The children were happily sliding down the snowy hill on their sleds

d Stalking: watching someone secretely and persistently Sentence- The tiger was stalking its prey, moving silently through the tall grass.

e ~~Terro~~ Terrorising: Intentionally causing extreme fear.
Sentence- The gang was terrorising the neighborhood, leaving residents afraid to step outside at night.

II Answer the following Reference to Context:-

1 "He should ---------- deer pass."

a Who is 'he'?
Ans 'he' is reffered to as the tiger.

b Where should he be lurking?
Ans He should be lurking in shadows.

c Where should he be sliding?
Ans He should be sliding through long grass.

d Who would pass near the water hole?
Ans The tiger would pass near the water hole.

III Answer the following in Short Answers:-

Q1 Describe the tiger in the cage?
Ans The tiger in the cage is restless yet helpless, pacing silently behind bars. His powerful body is restricted, and his fierce eyes reflect frustration. He longs for freedom but can only express his anger through suppressed rage. The confinement robs him of his natural instincts, making him a mere shadow.

Q2 Where should the tiger have been according to the poet?
Ans According to the poet, the tiger should have been in the wild, roaming freely in the forest. He should be lurking in the shadowy grass, hunting for prey near the water hole or terrorizing villagers near their homes. Instead, he is trapped in a cage, unable to live as nature intended, stripped of his freedom and power.

Q3 Why do you think the tiger looks at the stars?
Ans The tiger looks at the stars as a symbol of his longing for freedom. Trapped in a age, he can only gaze at the vast sky, dreaming of the wild

Scanned with OKEN Scanner

where he truly belongs. The stars represent hope, a distant world beyond his confinement, reminding him of the life he has lost.

IV Answer the following Long Answers:

Q1 Love for freedom is a natural instinct of every living bieng. Comment in the light of the chapter 'A Tiger in the Zoo'.

Ans Freedom is an essential instict for every living being, whethe human or animal. In 'A Tiger in the Zoo', the poet contrasts the tiger's life in captivity, confined behind bars, paces restlessly, his fierce energy suppressed. His longing for freedom is evident as he stares at the stars, dreaming of the life he has lost.

In the wild, the tiger would roam freely, hunt, and live according to his instincts. He would lurk in the tall grass, chase prey, and assert his dominance. However, captivity robs him of his strength and dignity, reducing him to a mere shadow of his true self.

The poem highlights how confinement suppresses the spirit of all creatures. Just like humans, animals deserve to live without restrictions, fulfilling their natural roles in their environment. Freedom is not just a privilage - it is a necessity for every living being.