III Answer the following in Short Answers:

Q1 Was Anne right when she said that the world would not be interested in the mussing of a 13 year old girl?

Ans No; Anne was not right in thinking that the world would not be interested in her mussings. Her dairy, The Diary of a Young Girl, became one of the most widely read ~~book~~ offering deep insights into life during Nazi occupation. It has been translated into many languages and adapted into films and plays.

Q2 What caused Anne to believe that a diary was a better confidant than a person?

Ans Anne Frank believed her dairy was a better confidant than a person because she lacked a true friend to confide in. Though she had aquaintances, she felt disconnected from them. She thought paper had more patience than people, allowing her to express her deepest thoughts and emotions freely without fear of judgment.

Q3 What made Mr. Keesing become cross with Anne?

Ans Mr. Keesing became cross with Anne because she was talkative in class. Despite his warnings, she continued chattling, which frustrated him. As punishment, he assigned her an essay titled "A Chatterbox". However, Anne clearly justified her talkative nature, making him laugh. Eventually, he accepted her behaviour and stopped punishing her.

Q4 Describe Anne's love for her Grand Mother.

Ans Anne Frank deeply loved her grandmother and cherished her memories. She lived with her grandmother for some time and often thought about her fondly. On her 13th birthday, she lit an extra candle in her honor, showing her affection. Anne considered her grandmother a guardian angel who watched over and protected her.

IV Answer the following long answers:-

Q1 Was Anne an intelligent girl? Support your answer by giving instances from the chapter 'The Diary of Anne Frank'.

Ans Anne Frank was unquestionably an intelligent girl. Her diary entries reveal an insightful mind that carefully examined her feelings and the events of her daily life. For instance, her descision to confide in "Kitty" shows a mature understanding that writing could offer her more patience and acceptance than personal interactions.

Her intelligence is further evident when she smartly justified her talkative nature through the essay "A Chatterbox". Rather than simply accepting punishment, she analyzed her behavior and expressed her thoughts in a clever, articulate manner.

Moreover, despite the challenging circumstances of hiding, Anne's reflective observations and keen analysis of human behavior demonstrate not only emotional depth but also intellectual maturity. These instances from the chapter in 'The Diary of Anne Frank' indicate that her insights continue to resonate, providing her enduring brilliance.
