II Answer the following Short Answers:-

Q1 What does the poet think the fog is like?

ans Carl Sandburg compares the fog to a cat. He imagines it arriving silently and slowly, like a cat walking on soft paws. The fog sits quietly, looking over the city and harbour, then moves on without warning. This metaphor shows the fog's mysterious, quiet, and transient nature - it doesn't announce itself, but leaves a lasting impression just like a silent observer.

Q2 How does the fog come silently?

ans The fog comes silently by creeping in softly, like a cat walking on padded feet. It doesn't roar or rush - it moves gently, with no sound to announce its arrival. This stillness reflects its quiet presence, slowly covering the city and harbour before fading away again, unnoticed. The poet uses this image to show how nature's quiet moments can hold mysterious power.

Q3 What does 'it' refer to in the third line of the poem?

ans In the third line of the poem Fog, the word 'it' refers to the fog itself. The poet uses the pronoun to continue describing the fog's actions and movements metaphorically, comparing it to a cat. This stylistic choice maintains a soft, mysterious tone, reinforcing how the fog quietly 'sits' and observes its surroundings like a silent creature.

IV Answer the following Long Answers:-

Q1 Difficulties come but they are not to stay forever. They come and go. Comment on the statement refering to the poem 'fog'.

ans The poem 'fog' by 'Carl Sandburg' reflects the transient nature of challenges, much like the fog that arrives quietly and leaves without warning. The comparison of fog to a cat emphasizes its silent, mysterious movement - It comes softly, pauses briefly, and eventually disappears, much like problems in life.

Difficulties often enter our lives without notice, creating confusion or obscuring clarity. However, as the fog "sits looking over harbour and city," it suggests a temporary phase - one that watches but does not act. This stillness symbolizes the passive presence of hardship, which neither retreats nor lasts forever.

Just as the fog 'moves on', troubles too fade with time. The poem subtly assures us that challenges are not permanent. They visit like fog, but they don't stay. With patience and perspective, clarity and light return.
